Summary

Goodtimer is an educational toy backed by neuroscience that encourages children (ages three to 10 years old) to form good habits using positivity, tangible incentives and family participation. Everyone is on the same page, and parents can rely on the consistency and confidence that Goodtimer brings.

The goal of Goodtimer is for children to earn "Good Time" by following their family's house rules. Each Goodtimer includes tokens children receive after earning Good Time. They can save their tokens and exchange them for incentives decided by their family. Each Goodtimer also includes a children's book that tells Goodtimer's charming back story and provides guidance for how to use Goodtimer. Each Goodtimer also includes a charging cable, plush token pouch, access to positive parenting resources and customer service support.
